CHRISTMAS IN VIRGINIA. A Virginia Coristmas is an institution peculiarly the product of its people, who are unlike all other people, in that that the force of tradition finds expreseion in generations far removed from the ancestral period of its highest social and domestic plane.

In the aute-bellum days Christmas was an event looked forward to and planned for months in advacce.

The first breath of bracing wird from the north, in the early fall, was the signal for the thoughful housewife to commence planning. The turkeys, roos ing in the trees by night, and is tening at leiture in daylight, assumed rounded form and large preportions at the fateful day drew near. Barrels of apples spread upon straw in an unuser garret, mellowed and colored to perfection. The sleek pige, running at large until a month before Caristmes, watched "the men" fit the big scalding hog-bead at an angle of 45 degrees, in the ground, and place the stout beam it position from which they were so score to be suspended, a cob in the me u b, emphazing the silence following the: last hear -rending death-squest. the cellar, storehouse or "lockroom" the brandy increased in age and strength, conwebs spread over super or wines in casks, and the key to the liquid delights was carefully guarded by experienced elder members of the

And when Caris mas did come! No other day could be compared with it The brew of eggnog thawed the cockes of the most frigid hear'. Sociability reigned universally. In every neigh borhood there was an endless succession of "frolics," and the man with the fiddle was more in request than a mod-It is to be feared that the modern of-servance is not the time of simple, sin cere joy it or ce was in Virginia. Con-d tions have changed. The struggle for existence has absorbed more and more the thought and attention of Virgrists. Thousands will pled on to working on the morn of the day, erjoy as its most grateful luxury the op-pertunity it affords for an extra beur's nap and for getting acquainted with one's family. The good housewife, t:uer to traditions, will have provided the inevitable turkey, and small socks and long stockings, nanging behind the stove-not above a fireplace-will bulge with confections at the tor-ends and dolls and cheap childish delights piled above and extending into view above the pedal receptacle.

But still it will be Coristmas Day.

and as such it must be observed-if not as one would, then, for appearance's sake, as one must.

Son of an Ohio Merchant Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea.

My son has been troubled for years with chronic diarrhoes. Sometime ago I persuaded him to take some of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrho a Remedy. After using two bottles of the 25-cent-eize he was cured. I give this testimonial, hoping some one similarly ifflicted may read it and be benefied.—Thomas C. Bower, Glancoe, O.
